"Eighteen free oranges a day for each of you, that's the limit," Douglas Beattie, former Metropolitan Opera Company star turned orange grower, tells two of the packers working in his orange packing house. The seedless navel oranges moving to market from California for the Christmas holidays are so big, sweet and juicy that packers are eating more than ever before but the growers are smiling because the packers only eat oranges when they are really top-quality.

DEATH COULD TAKE YOUR HOLIDAY

The wreath is a traditional symbol of Christmas. In windows and on front doors of homes all over America, the bright red and green holly will signify the joyous festivities of the holiday season.

For Christmas should be a time of happiness. Every family looks forward to the joy and celebration that the holiday period should bring. But every year thousands of families in our country see Christmas joy turned into suffering and tragedy because of needless and preventable accidents.

The National Safety Council points out that hundreds of persons are killed and thousands more injured by accidents during the Christmas-New Year's holiday season—the year's peak accident period. The No. 1 killer is traffic, and its death toll on Christmas Day is two or three times the annual daily average.

To keep death from taking your holiday—or the holiday of your loved ones—is a simple thing. It costs nothing, takes no time and requires only a little effort. It only means being aware of the extra holiday hazards and of the extra caution, common sense and courtesy needed to overcome them.

Refuse to drink if you are driving. Wait for the light to change. Yield the right-of-way. Discard a string of Christmas tree lights with worn insulation. Throw away gift wrappings as soon as presents are opened.

These are little things—but they pay off big in holiday happiness. These little extras go a long way toward keeping the lights on in your home and the red and green holly wreath on your door.

They will preserve for you and your loved ones the joy and delight that is America at Christmas.

Ward and Party Safe Aboard Ship Bound for States

ABOARD LAKELAND VICTORY OFF TAKU BAR (UP)—U. S. Consul General Angus Ward, gaunt and grey-bearded after a year of confinement by the Chinese Reds, stepped aboard this American ship and out of Communist hands at sunrise today.

The Chinese tug Chien Lung arrived beside the Lakeland at 7:20 a.m. (6:20 p.m. Sunday EST) and Ward was allowed to board the ship immediately. But it took nearly an hour of argument with accompanying Communist police before his party — 19 members of the consular staff and their families — were allowed to leave the tug.

The remaining members of the party, cold and sleepy, were held under guard in the dingy cabin of the tug while police tried to get Ward to sign a safe delivery certificate.

BEARD NEARLY WHITE

Ward, his famous red beard almost white and his clothes bagging from the loss of 25 pounds, bluntly told the police officials that " I can not, and shall not" sign a certificate until all members of the party and their baggage were safely aboard the ship.

At one point in the row he snapped tensely: "if we are going back to Tientsin let's do it now."

Wearing a fur-lined parka, fur hat and felt boots against the bitter cold morning, Ward appeared harried and tight-nerved as he came aboard the Lakeland with Tientsin Vice Consul Philip Manhard of Los Angeles. Manhard acted as interpreter in the hassel with the Red officials after Ward said "Chinese is not one of my languages."

NO PICTURES

The members of the party finally were allowed to leave the tug after a compromise was worked out whereby the Lakeland's skipper Capt. Paul R. Sexton, Palo Alto, Calif., and Ward signed separate certificates for the cargo and personnel.

The first member of the party to scramble aboard was an Irish Setter named "Sherry" owned by vice consul Fred Hubbard of Edgemont, S. D.

Police armed with American tommyguns and browning automatic rifles ordered cameramen to take no pictures of the party boarding the ship, apparently on the ground that Communist military facilities would show in the pictures.

TUG JUST SLOW

Ward said his party had not been delayed by the Communists at Taku Bar, as had been feared when they were late in arriving. "The tug was just slow, that's all," he said.

He said the party left Mukden at 3:45 a.m., Dec. 7, and that the trip had been uneventful except for discomforts.

"We were promised first class accomodations, but we got third class," he said. "This means wooden benches, little or no heat and no water for any purposes.

ECA Officials Released by Korean Reds

SEOUL, Korea (UP) — Two American seamen were released yesterday by North Korean Communists who held them prisoner for 80 days, but their return to South Korea was delayed 4½ hours when U. S. diplomats balked at recognizing Communist credentials.

Capt. Alfred T. Meschter of Kinderhook, N. Y., and Chief Engineer Albert E. Willis of Brooklyn appeared happy and in good health when they finally crossed the border. They said at one point of their confinement, however, they became so thin that even their guards were worried. Then they were given better food.

Meschter and Willis, employes of the Economic Cooperation Administration, were shanghaied by a mutinous crew when they boarded the freighter Kimball R. Smith on a two-day inspection tour. The crew sailed the ship to a Communist North Korean port.

The diplomatic officers—whose train to the 28th Parallel was almost derailed by logs placed on the tracks—were Harold J. Noble, Fairfax, Calif.; Col. James W. Fraser, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Senior Military Attache at the U. S. Embassy, and a Korean interpreter.

The Americans balked at wording of credentials borne by Major Kimjonggi of the North Korean Home Ministry (secret police) which named him a representative of the "North Korean Government," which the United States does not recognize.

Freeze Brings Smudge Pots Out

The West End got its chance to rub its eyes and complain over the smog over the week-end as growers lighted their pots for the second time last night.

Firing began at about 8:30 p. m.

Below - freezing temperatures were reported for most of the areas in the West End by Floyd D. Young of the Frost Warning Service:

Upland, 25; Cucamonga, 24; Etiwanda, 27; Claremont, 24; Alta Loma, 24; Ontario, 24; Fontana, 23. Dewpoint in the Upland-Ontario area was 14.

Some light northerly winds last night were expected to cause rapid temperature drops during calm periods.

Young said firing would be necessary tonight, but not so early, and little firing Tuesday night.

WEATHER

"We may not have the smog, but we can sure talk about our smudge," said Willoughby as he delicately wiped his eyes. "The WM says it should be a little warmer this afternoon, but this overcoat stays on until I know for sure."

Plan Strategy Meet For Prado Action

Directors of the newly formed Chino Basin Water Conservation district meet Wednesday to plan their water battle wih Orange county.

Last Friday Orange county supervisors filed formal notice of completion of work on construction of the 700-foot long infiltration pipeline upstream from Prado dam. The work is practically finished.

This completes the first of three steps proposed by Orange county in an effort to "salvage" up to 12,000 acre feet of water annually.

DISCUSS SUIT

The conservation district faces the problem of raising funds to cover court costs. They will discuss financing a suit against Orange county with San Bernardino County Treasurer Ray E. Williams at the meeting.

The district is authorized to issue registered warrants amounting to not over 25 cents an acre. About $18,000 could be raised this way, since the district includes 71,000 acres.

ENDANGER SUPPLY

County counsel Albert E. Weller said that if it can be shown that no surplus water exists within the basin the law provides that any exportation may be enjoined.

Flood control engineers for the county, who have completed a study of the basin, say the proposed Orange county drainage system behind Prado dam would seriously endanger the basin supply.

Legislature Opens Special Session Today

SACRAMENTO (UP) — The California legislature convenes in special session at noon today for what was expected to be short but sharp meeting on such controversial subjects as lobbying controls and new laws to control sex crimes.

Emergency school finance legislation and revisions in old age pension administration regulations, and proposals on a few minor subjects, also were to be placed before the session.

The lobby issue was expected to provide most of the fireworks for the session, although Gov. Earl Warren and the leaders of both houses of the legislature agreed that an anti-lobbying bill had to be passed.

The governor will sponsor comprehensive bill requiring financial reports from persons who seek to influence legislation, he announced. Harold J. Powers, R., Eagleville, president pro tempore, of the senate thought a bill could be passed quickly.

And, Sam L. Collin, R., Fullerton, speaker of the assembly, said he thought the legislature should pass a bill at least as strict as that in any other state.

The complaint had been filed by S. D. Clinton, father of the boy who was killed when his motorcycle and young O'Neal's car collided last Sept. 22.

O'Neal lives at 312 East A street, Ontario.

During the conversation, Tamminich reports, the man apparently lifted his wallet and then later replaced it in his pocket.

It was considerably lighter on the return trip. Tamminich said more than $50 was taken. The loss was not discovered until later.

Two Uplanders Die in Picnic Party Tragedy

A 70-ton slab of rock crushed to death four persons yesterday afternoon near Dead Man's point on the desert near Victorville. Two of those killed were from Upland.

Two others of the party of 17 picnickers were seriously injured when the slab broke from an overhanging boulder and fell on them.

One of the members of the party, just prior to the accident, saved the children from death when she decided to take them for a walk before the rock fell at 1:15 p. m.

THE DEAD:

Robert Jason Asper, 55, 470 Third avenue, Upland.

Mrs. Jessie Isom, 45, 827 Seventh street, Upland.

Mrs. Frances Morris, 38, 236 Mountain View, Pomona.

Harold Joseph Bovee, 40, 458 East Evergreen, Ventura.

THE INJURED:

Mrs. Mildred Long, 297 Tenth avenue, Upland.

Clifford Morris, 236 Mountain View, Pomona.

Mrs. Long is in critical condition. She was pinned under the rock for three hours while rescue workers under the direction of Sheriff's Captain L. L. Eblen worked to free her.

Morris was thrown clear when the rock crashed down, and his injuries were not so serious. Both were taken to St. Bernardine's Hospital in San Bernardino.

The party built a fire under a large overhanging boulder. Capt. Eblen explained that the heat of the fire apparently caused the piece to break off. He said that this was an old Indian method used to break rock.

Milburn Hirschman of Upland went to Victorville for help. Twenty volunteers returned with him. They used three large hydraulic jacks, a truck winch and railroad ties to free the injured persons and recover the dead.

HUGE SLAB

The victims under the rock were so badly crushed that they could only be identified by personal articles in their pockets.

Rescue crew volunteers worked three hours under hazardous conditions to get every one out. The huge slab was 15½ feet by 12 feet across and 3½ feet thick.

"It was a miracle that more of us weren't caught under it," said Hirschman, who rolled to safety as he saw the rock fall.

"The kids were down the hill playing and the others were standing out in the sunshine, so there were only seven of us under the rock when it cut loose.

NO WARNING

"It didn't make a sound. I just happened to glance up, and there it was, coming right at us. I didn't even have time to call a warning. I just rolled away in time."

Hirschman said the sheltered alcove had long been a favorite picnic spot for the several families.

"We always felt so safe and secluded under the rock, away from the wind and cold," he said.

Child's Play Is Serious Business; Toys Add to Social Life

Toys for the child over two are of the utmost importance in the opinion of the Toy Guidance Council, because he (or she) will have become more skillful in his play. Children can now pile blocks into a tower instead of throwing them, can put pegs in holes, screw and unscrew simple things, all of which develops the use of their hands. They love animals and toys which they can manipulate, and they scribble with crayon on paper, or with chalk on a small blackboard.

From two to four years girls appreciate realistic but simply dressed baby dolls. They are not yet able to care for the more elaborate types. Most youngsters at this age are content to play by themselves, and they take pride in ownership. About three, children begin to display astounding imaginative tendencies in their play. Boys make believe they are animals, policemen, soldiers, cowboys and so on. They enjoy airplanes, trains, holster sets and other toys which promote dramatic and imitative activity.

Girls like to play "grown-up ladies" at this stage. They put dolls to bed, dress and undress and feed them. They like simple housekeeping toys such as cleaning sets, stoves, dishes and chairs. The average child begins to enjoy other children at about three and a half or four. He runs, skips, climbs and loves to ride on simple wheel toys and is ready for pedal bikes, velocipedes and automobiles. Such things are important at this time to promote healthy exercise and contribute to the physical development of both boys and girls. Parents should be careful to buy the right size, however, as a too-big wheel toy which the child cannot manage can be quite frustrating.

Through the fourth and fifth years children like to play with each other, and they become more imitative. They enjoy simple tools, furniture, kitchen equipment, toy stores and telephones. They like to construct things, can complete picture puzzles, and cut paper dolls or pictures with blunt scissors. Easy games for both indoors and outdoors are welcome, and outdoor activity may be encouraged with such playthings as rollers skates, a coaster wagon or a scooter.

Dolls which can be fed, clothed or bathed appeal to girls at this age and they like doll houses, bassinets, furniture, dishes, housekeeping toys and similar playthings. Simple games such as ring toss, tiddly winks, pack straws or fish pond encourage group play which begins to take on a new importance about this time.

On entering school a child starts a new phase of life. He must learn to get along with other children, to work and play in larger groups. Most have acquired muscular skills, and mental growth shows a rapid advancement. Dramatic and imitative play still appeals, a tendency stronger in girls than in boys who now prefer to play with boys, and marked differences in play interests of girls and boys can now be seen.

Boys enjoy watching and participating in sports, and simple baseball, football or basketball outfits are prized possessions. Gym equipment such as rings and parallel bars may be fitted up in playroom, yard or basement. At this age boys really appreciate the play value of electric train outfits and metal construction sets which contribute to the interest in mechanics and electricity. Carpentry tool and model building outfits are popular. An album and selection of stamps usually make welcome gifts and may lead to a worth-while lifetime interest.

Both boys and girls learn skills and find pleasure in hobbies such as Indian handcraft, tilecraft, woodburning and metalcraft sets. Girls love elaborate doll houses, large carriages, toy furniture and sets of dishes, or anything that indulges the love of playing "mother." Both boys and girls enjoy simple parlor games, especially those that help them in their school work.

Also seated were Mrs. Ernest W. Fischer, secretary for literature and missionary education; Mrs. Mary Ward, spiritual life secretary; Mrs. Owen Atwood, social education and action; Mrs. J. B. McCarter, Christian education; Mrs. Earl H. Johnson, music. All of these will serve under the first vice-president.

Mrs. H. A. Hixson, courtesy chairman; Mrs. Allan S. Barr, age group chairman; and Mrs. Dan B. Milliken, community representative, will serve under the second vice-president. Mrs. S. P. Tipton, secretary for overseas and national sewing, is under the third vice-president.

Installed as chairmen of the six groups who carry out so much work of the organization, were Mrs. H. S. Hoard, Mrs. John Hale, Miss Lela McClelland, Mrs. M. G. Jones, Mrs. Arthur J. Reeder and Mrs. H. J. Warner.

A Christmas worship service was enjoyed by the group. This was titled, "And the Star Went Ahead," and was under the direction of Mrs. M. G. Jones, program chairman. A number of Christmas carols were sung, with Mrs Arthur Reeder and Mrs. Claude A. Owen as the readers.

During the morning session conducted by Mrs. Busch, retiring president, officers and committee chairmen gave reports and high lights of the year's accomplishments.

The noon luncheon was served by Group 6, under the direction of Mrs. Will F. Rugg. A Christmas motif was carried out in the table decorations, with red berries, greenery and poinsettias. Some 100 persons were present.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (UP)—Stuart Harris lost his gold pocket watch when he was in an automobile accident. He asked police to keep an eye out for it. Harris explained it would be easy to identify because in place of numbers the 12 letters of his name appeared.

SAN FRANCISCO—I have been studying modern music lately—modern music being approximately one-half "Mule Train" and the other half bop—and I may have found an antidote for the whole business.

This antidote would be a young colored gentleman, originally of Los Angeles, whose name is Connie Jordan.

Mr. Jordan is in his late 20s and he looks rather like a sunburned Sinatra. He is a reformed drummer, and he sings in a little joint called the "Say When," here in town. The "Say When" finds itself stacked to the eaves each evening when Mr. Jordan begins to roll, and remains stacked until Mr. Jordan goes away.

SLY SOPHISTICATION

This is because Mr. Jordan has a voice that combines something of the old-fashioned Georgia camp meeting with a sly sophistication and even a wistful tenderness—good gawd, Ruark, lay them adjectives down, boy—which makes him about the best parlay in entertainment I have clocked since Crosby had hair.

When Connie is singing hot, he opens up his mouth like a sinner come to mourn and he whacks his hands between phrasings, and when he rocks on his heels and whacks his hands and opens up his mouth, you can see the whole jampacked crowd whack hands and rock on heels and follow him with silent, open mouths.

When Connie renders "Saturday Night Fish Fry" unto his faithful, there is no doubt at all that the young man has a song in his lungs. He does not croon.

LOOKS NICE

Connie can stroke a ballad as soft and sexy as Sinatra in his better days, and he doesn't have to fake a falsetto. He can turn loose on a ditty with as much or as little noise as the ditty needs and knock the crowd dead with one reaction—namely, that a pleasant-looking brown youngster named Jordan has just cornered the market on all the rhythm in the world.

On top of that, he looks nice. There is a touch of the choir boy about him, and a clean, good humor. This is a refreshing change from the nasty-looking men with the berets and the little goatees who holler "oooo" and "eeee" in lieu of words, and those whose whole repertoire seems slanted at the marijuana or nappy-stick set.

I am just about caught up on this bebop kick. Paul Weston, a rare band leader who plays soft and pretty, was telling me the other day that bop has become so esoteric that when a player gets up now to take a solo break, all he has to do is stand there for most of his 32 bars and the applause is just as heavy as if he were playing.

"COOL" AUDIENCE

This is known as performing to a "cool" audience, a cool audience being one which is so hep that it does not need to hear the music at all, but can imagine what the music would sound like if it were actually being blown out of a horn or thumped from a drum. It is somewhat like paying a singer not to sing or a football player not to run, and may have some advantages at that. I mean that is the proper place for bop, anyhow—in the heads of its fanciers and not in the public eardrum.

My man Jordan comes from a musical family and hence has some respect for sharps and flats. His stuff ends on the beat and he is so old-fashioned he even sings in tune. This is a modern miracle in jazz singing, since most of the ones I hear lately wander around the melody like a drunk in the subway.

Ordinarily, I do not make a habit of going about discovering people, since this sometimes earns you a rap on the snout or additional financial obligations, but I break the rule in favor of Mr. Connie Jordan.

If this young gent isn't the hottest thing in the vocal business before he's much older, I will take up bop myself and try to make it popular with people who speak English.

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Shirley Temple, who shed husband John Agar monday, isn't back in circulation yet. She's refused nine ex-boy friends who called for dates,, she said because she feels "like an old lady now."

"They're boys I knew when they were in service, and they all happen to still be single," said Shirley in her first interview since she bared the secrets of her unhappy marriage in a divorce court Monday.

"But I said no. I just didn't want to talk to any of them. I feel like an old lady now."

LOTS OF FRIENDS

Shirley's 5 feet, 2½ inches sat all alone in the high ceiling, impressive living room of the huge doll house where she and Agar spent their four-year "storybook marriage." But she hasn't been stuck for company these nights, even though she's not on the available-for-dates list, she said.

"I've had a lot of my married friends over to dinner," she smiled. "So many people have called—I didn't know I had so many friends. They've brought little gifts, like a cactus plant. I haven't gone out except for a dinner with my divorce witness (Mrs. Sidney Franklin, Jr.) and her husband.

"Sometimes I feel way up, sometimes way down. I'd been happy so many years, I knew it had to end. I'm the curious type. I like to investigate. I investigated life and it made me unhappy.

TOO SOON TO TALK

"It's too soon to talk about another marriage yet. I'm not against it — there's a lot of things about marriage I like. Right now I'd like to get back to work in a picture tomorrow . . . but in a way I wouldn't."

Shirley almost replaced Wanda Hendrix in a movie when the little star, who's trying to patch up her marriage with Audie Murphy, got sick.

"I'm glad Wanda was able to go back to work," said Shirley. "She's in the same boat I was in only she hasn't made up her mind yet."

When Miss T does go back to work, she said, she might unveil a "new Shirley Temple" on the screen. Her last couple of pictures got boos from the critics, so she's been busy taking singing and acting lessons.

ENTIRELY DIFFERENT

"I'd like to really do something, not just go on playing Shirley Temple," said Shirley, now a 'grass widow' at 21. "I'm going to be more choosy about my scripts. I haven't recently done much of anything, except 'Kiss for Corliss' that I was happy with.

"I don't think an actress is really good until she's about 25 anyway. I hope people accept me through this transitory period. I hope I last that long. The critics complain I have to many 'Shirley Templisms.' I guess I keep doing the same things I was taught long ago. When friends come to see me on the set, they say I'm entirely different in pictures than off-screen."

The ex-Mrs. John Agar doesn't think her divorce will make her act any differently in the movies, though," she added.

"That happened in my private life and it's not something I want to carry over into my career. Maybe it'll affect me noticeably two years from now, you never know."

And the public?

"Well," said Shirley, "I hope they understand I'm human."

BARBER "SELLS" TREES

BREVARD, N. C. (UP) — John Smith is following in the footsteps of Johnny Appleseed except that he's no specialist. The barber plants trees via the propaganda he pours into his customers' ears. And before they go out the door, he hands them a tree seedling application blank from the supply he gets through his county farm agent.

ONCE IS ENOUGH

DOTHAN, Ala. (UP) — "Incumbent" is virtually an unknown word in city commission elections here. They just don't run again. In fact, since the commission form of government was adopted in 1934, six of the 12 commissioners have resigned. Only three have completed their terms. One died in office.

WASHINGTON — The contrast between Europe immediately after the end of the war and Europe today goes deeper than the surface of physical recovery. It seems to me to sum up as follows:

In 1946 and '47, we were agreeably surprised to see that the European invalid was on his feet. After the long and terrible years of the war, the vigor and normality displayed were astonishing. We were quick — too quick — to conclude that the damage had been exaggerated.

An easy and facile optimism was the immediate result. A few years of the Marshall Plan would put everything to rights again.

The observer who tries honestly to see beneath the surface cannot come away now, nearly five years after the end of the European war, with any such optimism. The corrosion and corruption resulting not from one but from two world wars have cut deeply into the fabric of civilization in Western Europe.

MOVED CAUTIOUSLY

This means, of course, that far greater patience, skill, understanding and resolution must come from the United States and Western Europe, working in unison, if the values of that civilization are to be conserved and extended. There is a suspicion that in trying to run before he could walk, the invalid may actually have done himself harm while deceiving the rest of the world into believing falsely in his recovery.

But, in my opinion, it does not necessarily follow that we should be overcome by pessimism. On a more realistic basis than two or three years ago, it even may be possible to see some small reason for optimism.

In 1949, American policy in Europe—as contrasted to the Far East—has moved cautiously and tentatively forward.

GAIN IN GERMANY

A gain has been recorded in Germany. The ultimate result is not guaranteed. But at least a dangerous drift toward more violent and virulent nationalism in the Nazi pattern has been checked by positive action on which the Western Allies were in general agreed.

That action has even greater significance than has been so far revealed. The agreement ratified by Secretary of State Dean Acheson's visit to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer covers two major points of policy to be implemented in the coming year.

Point No. 1: Adenauer agreed to put into effect a carefully-worked-out program of decartalization grounded in new laws to be adopted by the West German government. This is in accord with a plan evolved by United States High Commissioner John J. McCloy.

SPECIAL COURTS

It will be patterned after the system of anti-trust laws in this country. But, in addition, special courts would be created to umpire cartel decisions. German businessmen could refer proposed mergers and combines to such courts to determine whether the contemplated steps were in violation of laws forbidding cartels. This, it happens, is more than American businessmen can do, since anti-trust laws in this country provide only for punitive action on charges that the laws have been violated.

Point No. 2: Adenauer agreed to work for a law or laws that would forbid racial persecution or racial discrimination. This is aimed at the rising anti-semitism that threatens to develop into a new cult of hate like that on which Hitler rose to power.

The best hopes of this agreement may fail if Adenauer—and, even more important, his rivals for power—are encouraged to believe that a West German army is essential to western security. Such encouragement is bound to persuade the Germans that they need do nothing to comply with Allied desires.

UNHAPPY EXAMPLE

Unfortunately, such encouragement has come, both publicly and privately, from American and British military men of high rank. One of the unhappiest examples was the public statement of Gen. Lucius D. Clay in favor of arming Western Germany. The former chief of the U. S. Occupation Forces chose to make that statement at a time when complicated and difficult negotiations were in progress with Adenauer.

Clay should know well enough the handicap of having critics and kibitzers who shout from afar. McCloy must have a chance to try to carry through the German policy that is now advanced to a beginning phase. The integration of Western Germany with Western Europe can mean a long advance in stability.

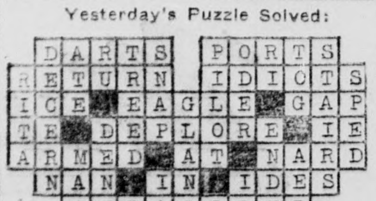
Yesterday's Puzzle Solved:



Dorothy Thompson

SEATTLE, Wash. — The state of Washington is now up against the inevitable crisis of the welfare state — the same crisis the British people have had to face, namely, the rude awakening that there ain't no Santy Claus.

In 1948, through the state's initiative and referendum system — by which any bill can be submitted to vote on petition of 30,000 citizens — "The Citizens Security Act," otherwise known as "Initiative 172," was passed.

Less than a year later this prosperous and progressive state faces bankruptcy. Although the people voted to increase the already advanced social security benefits, their representatives have not dared to vote the taxes to finance them. That would explode the happy idea that something can be obtained for nothing. The result is a deficit rapidly approaching $100,000,000, for which the governor, Arthur B. Langlie, has no solution but the dubious hope of cutting every department to the bone, since the legislature will not supply the necessary funds.

GRADUATED TAX

The governor — a Republican elected in a Democratic landslide — proposed a straight 2 per cent income tax with exemptions of $1000 for husband and another $1,000 for wife, which he thought might pass the supreme court. A graduated income tax is forbidden in the state constitution. There is a 40-mill ceiling on property taxes protected by a consitutional amendment passed when previous excessive property taxes had driven values into a tailspin and thrown large amounts of real estate upon the state, in default of taxes.

Excise taxes are already as high as any in the union — 3 per cent on all turnovers. There would be a public outcry were these sales taxes increased.

And, meanwhile, the state has other needs besides social security. The increase in population is taxing school facilities way beyond capacity. The highways are in serious need of repair. The normal expenses of government are increasing. But precisely those politician who campaigned for increased social security are the ones who balk at revealing the cost to the people and demanding higher taxes.

Governor Langlie's income-tax proposal passed the Republican senate — without a single Democratic vote — and was defeated in the Democratic house which brought in no other measure for staving off pending bankruptcy. It is the old story of getting votes by promising something for free and then fearing to lose them by presenting the bill.

The act itself, initiative 172, is atrociously drawn, opening the way for myriad abuses. It was initiated by the crowd around the Communist or fellow-traveler, Hugh DeLacy, and might have been calculated to bankrupt the state. It guarantees all necessitious applicants over 65 a minimum pension of $60. There is little objection to this — Washington citizens' in general are committed to help for the old, the handicapped and dependent children.

But the bill is very weak in its definitions of indigency. For example, it specifically exempts relatives of applicants of responsibility for their care, and there are substantiated cases of well-to-do children palming off their parents on the public rolls, and afterward giving them thousand-dollar funerals. And the bill covers additional assistance to elderly recipients including (and with lamentable lack of definition) free medical care, funeral benefits (even a thousand-dollar funeral will be paid to the extent of $100 by the state) etc.

Now, no government in the world has ever been able to put unlimited free medicine on any actuarial or predictable basis and this feature of the bill is chiefly responsible for pyraminding costs and furnishing abuses.

The extra sum that will be required in a year's time is equal to $28 for every man, woman and child in the state, and the average earner will have to be taxed $150 to 200 per year to cover the cost.

A study of the condition of this state is recommended to all advocates of socialized medicine and cradle-to-the-grave social security. There are families here who, taking advantage of the multiple possibilities of state aid, are drawing down $400 per month and refusing, naturally, jobs at $200 to $250.

DEFICIT GROWS

The outstanding fact to be noted is the unwillingness of the advocates of such measures to present the bill. This is true in the state of Washington and Washington, D. C. Since 1940, federal taxes have increased nearly 80 per cent — from 5.6 to 39.4 billion, but the deficit has grown in almost equal proportion — from 45 billion to 256 billion! And this appalling discrepancy between what is spent and what is raised occurs when the national income is near the highest in history! It is an absolutely reckless example of the spirit of "after us the deluge."

Exactly this policy wrecked the Roman empire. The Barbarians within who assisted the downfall then inherited it, as the Barbarians within our own society hope to inherit this one.

Ventura Pirates Down Panther Quintet, 64-44

The Ventura Pirates lived up to advance notices as being one of the strongest jaycee basketball teams in the southland, as they downed the Chaffey Panthers Friday night on the local gym 65 to 44.

Led by two sharp-shooting forwards, Ed Millan and Frank Kerker, the visitors pulled away from the Panthers after the first quarter, to lead at half time, 36 to 19. Millan was high man with 23 while Kirker had 17.

The Panthers made a strong come back in the second half to narrow the gap, but couldn't catch the fast moving Pirates. Chuck Whitham and Marv Copeland led the Panthers, with Whitham high with 15, while Copeland swished in 13.

All was not lost, the Chaffey jayvee won over the Little Pirates 49 to 39, led by Gary Waldron, with a nifty 18 points. Lenard Peden, the lank footballer, was good for 11 digits.

REQUEST GRANTED

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UP)—J. T. Greer, 51, walked into police headquarters and asked to be arrested because "it was the best way I know to sober up". He was arrested.

OODLES OF NOODLES

How did you like the Little Rock-Santa Ana titanic last Saturday? From where we sat, it looked as if Santa Ana was indeed fortunate to lose the game by only six points.

The Trojans from Little Rock made "Harum-Scarum" Karam look like quite a prophet, with their speed, deception and hard blocking and tackling.

Santa Ana was obviously out to get Harold "Tiger" Waggoner, but he was tough or tougher than the Dons, who held him to 168 yards for 7.33 yards per carry. He was overshadowed, we thought, by the quarterback, Ralph Troillett. That guy was smooth as a baby's bottom-side, with his hand-offs, fakes, and all-around ball handling.

His choice of plays was good. He mixed 'em up, and he had the Dons chasing the wrong guy on nearly every play. His passing was sharp, in spite of having two intercepted that proved costly as a bad habit. We understand that Jimmy Phelan, coach of the L.A. Dons, said that Troillett was as good a field general and "T" quarterback as the famous George "The Kid" Ratterman of the Buffalo Bills.

Little Bennie Scott, all 127 pounds of him, standing a meager 5 feet, 4 inches, made one of the greatest, if not the greatest, runs ever seen in the sacred Arroyo Seco bowl. His runback of the punt was simply out of this world. Hollywood would be afraid to try and duplicate it, because it was so impossible, yet he did it.

Taking a punt on his own 30, he reversed his field, ran back towards his own goal, made a complete circle, reversed again, and finally cut to the side lines on his 15, and behind blocking that decorated the turf with fallen Dons, he sped all the way to score.

He must have covered a good 150 or more yards in his tremendously thrilling run. This little sprite can really ramble, as can his famous brother, Clyde "Smack-Over" Scott, formerly of Navy and now starring with the Philadelphia Eagles.

TOO MUCH SPEED

Al Carmichael played his heart out, as did the whole Santa Ana team, but from the kickoff it was pretty apparent that the Trojans had too much speed and deception for the Dons. The Trojans, using very few subs throughout the game, seemed to be running out of gas starting the fourth quarter, while the Dons seemed to be getting stronger. But the Trojans marched 80 yards straight down the field to score the deciding touchdown and break the 19-to-19 tie, with just 3 minutes and 10 seconds left to play.

So, Santa Ana will always be remembered as the first western team to bow in the Little Rose Bowl game, in spite of the fact they played a good game. They looked better than they did in any game we saw them play during the season, and they were "up" for the game, too. Little Rock was just the better team, we think.

CIF PLAYOFFS

Compton High, which murdered the Chaffey Tigers in the first of the CIF playoffs, went all the way Saturday to win their first CIF championship. They did it the hard way, too, coming back with just two minutes of play to drive 87 yards for a touchdown to break the 13-to-13 tie, with that rascal, Jim Contratto, plunging over.

Santa Barbara looked like a winner, driving down field, but were stopped cold on the Compton 13, to lose the ball on downs, from where the Tarbabes started their final and winning drive.

Contratto, who has coaches of the country drooling, attributed the win to the fact that Compton was in better physical shape. That may be, but we think they won the CIF because of their terrific speed. The same thing applies to the Little Rock Trojans. Speed . . . and more speed . . . that's what seems to win football games.

Tom Harmon, who does a swell job, for the most part, in describing the football games over that gadget called television, made lots of Santa Ana fans unhappy as he constantly called Santa Ana "Pasadena." He said: "Pasadena now has the ball," etc.; "Pasadena scored another first down," about a dozen or so times.

O-U Pirates in Tie for Loop Championship

By DON BENSON

Kenny Smith's Ontario-Upland Pirates, playing the Los Angeles Cardinals who were the traveling champs, sent the visitors back to smog-bound L.A. with a nifty 6-to-1 lacing, to add to their woes.

Tad McMahan, the crafty lefty for the Pirates, pitched a wonderful game and except for a few mental and physical lapses by his teammates, would have had a shutout. Tad scattered four scratch hits while walking four and fanning 10.

Going into the eighth inning, Tad had slammed the door in their faces. But an overthrow by Bill L. Wolfe to first and another wild toss by Kenny Smith allowed two men to be safe. Then a runner pulled a Mel Patton and stole home for the Cardinals' only run.

It took the Pirates until the fourth inning to cross home plate. Dennis "Diz" Luby, who had a field day at the plate with a 4 for 4 and displayed brilliant work in the field, singled to start off the inning. LanFranco singled on a hit-and-run, sending Luby to third. LanFranco stole second and Gordon Goldsberry popped out, with Don Seely singling over second to score both runners. Seely was driven in later, for three runs on four hits.

Luby stole both second and third in the seventh inning and scored on LanFranco's fly ball for another stellar play of the game.

The Pirates, now tied for southland honors with the Pacific Clay, will meet them at a date to be determined at a meeting tonight. The Pirates, who last won the league back in 1945, under Kenny Smith's dad during the war years, have now won nine straight games, eight of them being of the league variety. In the nine games, they have allowed less than two runs per game, which indicates the caliber of pitching of Tad McMahan and Bill Abernathy, and the excellent support they have received.

Rams Beat 'Skins To Win NFL Title

By United Press

The LosAngeles Rams won the National Football league's Western Division title Sunday by beating the Washington Redskins, 53 to 27, and will play the Philadelphia Eagles, Eastern champions, for the NFL championship next Sunday at Los

Los Angeles, with rookie Norm Van Brocklin and veteran Bob Waterfield throwing, put on a sparkling aerial show to beat the Redskins and 35-year-old Sammy Baugh, one of the NFL's all-time passing stars.

Waterfield, who led the Rams all season, threw two touchdown passes, but he spent most of the time on the bench to give Van Brocklin a chance to show his ability, and the rookie came through with four touchdown heaves. Baugh played his usual fine game, throwing three touchdown passes and scoring the other Washington touchdown himself.

CARDINALS CRUSHED

In the other final regular season games, the Chicago Bears crushed the Chicago Cardinals, 52 to 21; the Eagles beat the New York Giants, 17 to 3; the Detroit Lions beat the Green Bay Packers, 21 to 7; and the Pittsburgh Steelers beat the New York Bulldogs, 27 to 0.

Ends Tom Fears and Bow Shaw were the pass-catching stars for the Rams. Fears broke Don Hutson's league mark of 74 passes caught in a single season when he made 10 catches to boost his 1949 total to 77. He scored two touchdowns. Shaw tied a league record by catching four touchdown passes.

The Rams had to win to capture the western crown because the Chicago Bears, who played like the old monsters of the midway in the closing weeks of the season, would have taken the title if Los Angeles had been beaten or tied by Washington.

PASS PERFORMANCE

Johnny Lujack, Bear quarterback, climaxed his second pro season with one of the finest passing performances in league history. He broke the league record for yards gained on passes in a single game by completing 24 out of 39 for 468 yards against the Cardinals.

He threw six touchdown passes, one less than the NFL mark set by Bear quarterback Sid Luckman against the New York Giants in 1943. A crowd of 50,101 Wrigley Field fans saw Lujack and the Bear line turn the annual grudge game into a rout.

DON'T GIVE UP! THERE'S STILL BOWL TICKETS!

CARMEL (UP) — Hey fellers, don't give up hope on getting a Rose Bowl ticket!

Pacific Coast conference Representatives in session here yesterday announced they have 2,400 Rose Bowl tickets they don't know what to do with.

It seems that when those 10,500 seats were added to the Rose Bowl during the past year, they were paid for by the sale of only 8100 seats — leaving 2400 extras. The PCC men, after due deliberation, recommended to the conference that 1200 go to the PCC and the other 1200 to the Big Ten.

THE SPORTLIGHT

Grantland Rice

THE TOP ACROBAT

NEW YORK — You hear about this ball player and that ball player being the best all-around athlete, but there's only one outstanding acrobat. His name is Joe Gordon, of the Cleveland Indians.

Gordon began as one of Oregon's greatest football prospects. They tell me that he was the best-looking freshman prospect a coach ever sighted. But Gordon figured he would rather play baseball, so he gave football the air.

Joe is the only fellow I ever saw who can dive through the air for a few feet—and then turn his direction in midair. He might as well have wings. The Indian infielder can also do other tricks that belong in a circus.

I was playing golf with him and Bill Dickey one day in Florida. At the finish of the match, Gordon issued a challenge. "How about a race to the clubhouse?" he asked. "Me running on my hands."

ABANDON FOOT-RACING

The race was on for some 50 yards and Gordon won it. The only alibi Dickey and I had was that Bill can walk as fast as he can run and your correspondent had abandoned foot-racing some months before.

The Oregon flash will be 35 years old in February. Considering his acrobatic qualities, this isn't too old. He has averaged .270 as a hitter for his 10 years in the big leagues. Gordon was held in the minors much too long. He was a big league star at least two seasons before being called to the Yankees.

But Gordon is better than just a .270 hitter. In 1948, he drove in 124 runs and he has averaged 23 home runs a season.

Joe the flash has always been a leftfield hitter. "Take out that third baseman and that leftfielder," he said once, "and I'll guarantee to bat .600." He would not be far away.

KEEN RIVALRY

Oddly enough, the keenest rivalry in baseball, or something close to it, is the one between Gordon and Bobby Doerr. The two were born in Los Angeles, moved to Eugene, Ore., played second base, are keen fishermen and both players have been neck-and-neck for years.

Gordon has been the more spectacular second baseman—probably the greatest fielding star of all time. Both men are dangerous hitters. Doerr is three years younger and yet has had 12 big league years against Gordon's 10, showing the delay forced on Gordon before he escaped minor league captivity.

A FEW ZUPPKEISMS

(After a lunch with Red Grange's old coach:)

"I have but one basic thought in football—to carry away the respect of every opponent we meet."

"A football bounces funny."

"All-American teams are made by a back who runs wild through weak opposition with a poet in the press box."

"Red Grange was the greatest back I ever saw, because, in addition to being a great ball carrier, a fine pass-receiver, a hard tackler and blocker, he was also the game's greatest 'artist. He was a master painter in action, where every move was a poem."

"We can lose every game on our schedule—and still look good."

RARELY GOOD

"A senior football team is rarely any good. When they get to be seniors, they are generally too smart to have their brains knocked out. They let the sophomores and juniors take the beating."

"I never look at hard tackles. I only like to hear them."

"The two-platoon system is part of our times. It wins games the easy way. It is wonderful from the coach's angle. Maybe also from the players'. But what has become of two great words—stamina and durability? We'll leave these to the Finns and Swedes. But they are great words."

"I introduced such odd plays as the 'Flea Flicker' and the 'Whoa Back' to give the crowds a kick and to please my players. I also liked 'em myself. And I won a lot of games with them."

FINISHED FOR FOOTBALL

"Few of my players were any good as pros. When I finished with them they also were about finished."

"Most of the things that are new in football were old 30 years ago. This includes the 'T'. A lot of us had discarded the spinners that helped make Michigan famous. We didn't have the players to use them, but the plays were old stuff."

Name Metcalf to All-Tournament Casaba Quintet

by Hal Borchert

Steller Tiger Forward Dean Metcalf was named to the Pasadena Invitational All-tournament team for his performances in the tourney.

Metcalf scored 25 points in the two games which Chaffey played and was constantly in the hair of his rivals with his ball hawking ability.

Alhambra Moors captured first place in the invitational with a 53-45 triumph over the El Monte Lions. Ron Bane paced the victors with 22 point. He and Ron Livingston were also named on the all tournament team.

KNOCKED OUT

The Tigers were knocked out of the tournament on Friday night when they lost a 47-32 contest to the Lions. The locals had previously defeated Mark Keppel in the quarter finals.

Next big date for the Tigers is the Chino tournament, which begins on December 27. The locals are defending champions in the tourney and are hoping for a repeat performance. The Bengals have an engagement with the Chino Cowboys on Tuesday afternoon, which is their final game before the tourney.

CLAREMONT WINS

The jayvees and sophs lost two games to Claremont on Friday afternoon. The varsity wolfpack trimmed the jayvees 48-32 while the visitors took the sophomore game, 21-15.

The Wolfpack trailed the locals for the first half but cameback in the second half to go on to victory. Center Bill Story and Guard Paul Whitham led the scoring with 14 points apiece. Forward Harness led the locals with nine points.

The Cubs had trouble hitting the basket in their game and only scored four points in the second half.

Methodist WSCS Hears Christmas Program

Featuring the December meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Upland Methodist church Thursday in Fellowship hall, was a program of Christmas music.

The boy's choir of the Upland junior high school, under the direction of Mrs. Larry Talbert, sang two numbers, "God Rest Ye, Merry Gentlemen" and "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel." George Stevens played a violin solo, and Dale Buckwalter sang "Jesu Bambino." John Owens, trombonist, played "Ave Maria," and twelve of the boys sang "We Three Kings." The chorus concluded with "O Holy Night."

Mrs. Ralph J. Wilson and Mrs. H. H. Bowers entertained with a piano duet, and Mrs. J. A. Betz gave a beautiful reading, "The Wayfarer's Candle." A trio composed of Mrs. Bowers, Mrs. John E. Skewis and Miss Ethel Jean Wilson, sang "No Candle and No Fire," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Wilson.

Presiding over the meeting was the president Mrs. Coy E. Spies, and Mrs. Fred F. Thornburg had charge of the devotions. Mrs. Ralph J. Wilson was program chairman.

The noon luncheon was served by members of the Dorcas circle. The tables were beautifully decorated in a Christmas theme, with Mrs. Henry Dybsand in charge.

PEO Sisterhood Has Meeting

A paper on "Ohio," her native state, was given by Mrs. G. H. Crill for the program for the recent meeting of Chapter DV, P. E. O. Sisterhood, held at the home of Mrs. G. E. McQuatters, 226 Miramonte avenue, Ontario.

Mrs. J. A. Salyards, the president, presided over the business session, during which a Christmas project was decided upon. Members also discussed plans for their Christmas party to be held Dec. 19 at the home of Mrs. Mary Hime.

Concluding the evening, refreshments were served by Mrs. McQuatters, assisted by Mrs. W. C. Groneweg and Mrs. C. E. Jaggard.

Mrs. D. T. Huggins and Miss Ruth Shackelford were guests, and members present were the Mesdames Philippi Gordon, G. F. Harbidge, T. Melvin Lee, Crill, Ralph M. Myers, E. X. Pitman, C. W. Randall, Salyards, A. E. Stevenson, R. O. Withey, H. B. Dopf, Mary Hime, Groneweg, Jaggard, McQuatters and Misses Winnie Catheral and Isadore Miller.

Navel Prorate Upped 100 Cars For This Week

Demand for California navel oranges increased during the late last week and the fob average return registered slight gains.

Total sales for the week were more than 350 cars ahead of the previous week and while the fob average for the entire week was lower, shippers anticipated improved returns during the next two weeks due to Christmas holiday buying, according to the California Fruit Growers Exchange.

Shipments constituted the bulk of holiday offerings. Because of increased interest in California navels, the Orange Administrative Committee increased the Central-Northern California navel prorate for that week by an additional 100 cars.

Prorate for the week beginning December 11 was set at 600 cars of Central-Northern California navels; 100 cars of Arizona navels; and 25 cars of Southern California navels on the basis of advanced maturity. The volume of fruit scheduled to move during that week was reduced because of the normally low produce business conducted during and immediately after the holiday period.

Florida is getting into the orange market in heavy volume, estimating shipments for the week ending December 10 at 2500 cars of oranges and 800 cars of tangerines with an estimated 3750 cars of oranges and 1035 cars of tangerines scheduled to move the following week.

The California lemon market continues very strong under light shipments due to below normal picks and storage.

SLEEVE SPECTACLE—Sleeves—the fabulous leg o' mutton sleeves—steal the spotlight as Jean Desses presents a honey-colored satin sensation from his winter collection. The huge puffed sleeves taper down to matching, gloved fingers, leaving attractive shoulders bare.

Solons Rap Income Quiz

WASHINGTON (UP) — Twenty-three Republican congressmen asserted yesterday the Truman administration is flouting the constitution and discriminating against low-income groups by planning to survey family finances in the 1950 census.

In a joint statement issued here, they endorsed and expanded on the sharp protest lodged with the census bureau Saturday by Rep. Clarence Brown, R., O.

Census officials declined immediate comment but indicated a "full statement" will be issued later this week.

The politically-hot controversy began when the bureau announced recently that 1950 census takers will ask every fifth American to disclose his income.

Persons who refuse to answer could face penalties of up to 60 days in jail, $100 fines, or both. In addition, false answers are punisnable under the census law by up to one year in jail, a $500 fine, or both.

The bureau said the "sampling" is needed to improve government economic statistics, and that individual answers, by law, will be kept confidential.

OLD BUT AMBITIOUS

REIDSVILLE, Ga. (UP) — An 87-year-old woman just arrived at the state penitentiary here said "I will be so glad when I get out so I can get on the ball and have some fun." Her name and crime was not reported by "The Spokesman," a magazine issued by prison inmates.

SMITH GIRLS GROW TALLER

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (UP) —Smith College girls are getting taller. This year's average freshman stands 5 feet 5.3 inches as compared with 5 feet 2.9 inches for the class of 1896.

Senators to Ask Coffee Bureau Head About Charges of Dumping

WASHINGTON (UP) — A senate agriculture subcommittee investigating sky-high coffee prices will try to find out today whether the Pan American coffee bureau, New York City, is a cartel operating to create artificially higher prices in coffee."

Scheduled to testify is C. G. Lindsay, head of the bureau's New York office, who may provide the fireworks in the committee's iquiry. Another witness will be W. F. Williamson, manager of the National Coffee association.

Subcommitte counsel Paul Hadlich said today that Lindsay will be asked about reports of 'coffee dumping" and other expedients to keep prices up. Lindsay's bureau represents coffee producers in some six Latin American countries.

ASKS ACTION

The subcommittee has summoned Herbert A. Bergson, assistant attorney general in charge of the justice department's anti-trust division, to testify Tuesday. He will be asked what action can be taken against anyone in the industry found to be using illegal trade practices.

Meantime, Costa Rica announced its coffee exporters will not increase wholesales prices to American importers despite higher retail prices in this country. The Costa Rican embassy said the exporters will honor existing contracts.

There have been rumors in trade circles that coffee-producing countries will refuse to meet their contract obligations unless importers agree to raise prices laid down in the contracts.

HIGH OUTPUT

The agriculture department said that Guatemala, another coffee producing country, expects its 1949-50 output to exceed 900,000 bags, considerаby higher than previous estimates and about the same as for the 1948-49 crop year.

Subcommittee chairman Guy M. Gillette, D., Ia., has said throughout the congressional hearings that he believes the high prices can be traced to "trade interests and speculators." He does not believe there is a great shortage or that the prices are due to "economic conditions of supply and demand."

Blizzard Sweeps Midwest, 22 Die In Bitter Cold

by United Press

A mighty winter blizzard took a rising toll of dead yesterday as it swept snow and bitter cold into the great plains states and kicked up tornadoes in Arkansas and Missouri.

At least 22 death were recorded, most of them on icy highways in the path of the winter's first big blizzard.

The blizzard hurdled over the Continental Divide into the Dakotas and Nebraska after lashing Rocky mountain states and was on its way to the midwest.

REPORT FATALITIES

Meanwhile, Arkansas state police reported that a storm-brewed tornado was skipping across the state and dipping into small rural communities.

There were reports of some fatalities at Providence and Velvet Ridge in White county of Arkansas, and reports of tornado damage at Bradford.

Earlier the twister tore into the small towns of Clinton and Shirley and smashed houses. A twister also hit Hannibal, Mo.

BLOWN DOWN

Forecasters here said the vast western storm system, which had spread its effects as far south as Texas, undoubtedly was responsible for the twisters.

Three houses were blown down at Shirley—one of them tossed 30 feet in the air by the twister — and 6 at Clinton. No injuries were reported, however. Property damage was said to be extensive at Hannibal, where the tornado cut through a residential district.

At Miles City, Montana, a rancher died of exposure in near-zero weather as the blizzard roared eastward over the well-worn track of last winters great storms.

Forty to 50 miles per hour winds swirled snow into traffic-stopping drifts in the Dakotas and Nebraska as the storm invaded the great plains.

Present Grid Awards To 34 on CIM Eleven

The Eighth Annual Football Award Presentation at the California Institution for Men, Chino, finale to a highly successful season as 34 members of the inmate football squad received gold footballs from Glenn Davis and Jess Hill, former All-Americans.

The CIM gridders coached by Louis Popue and Fred Brawley, and assisted by Hank Azhderian, Chino High's football mentor, won seven and dropped two to end up just one notch from the top in the high-calibre Los Angeles City Municipal League.

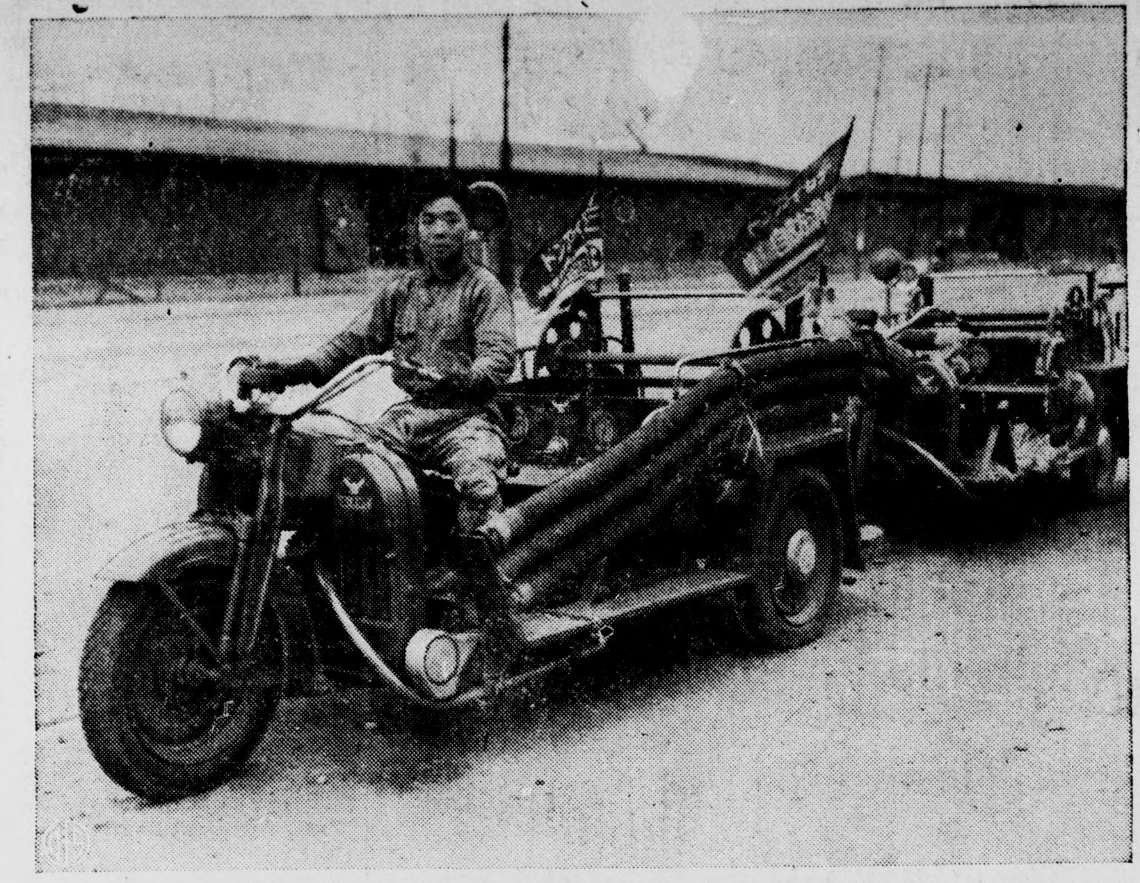
The gold football trophy prel sentations were made by Lt. Glenn Davis, former Army great, and Jess Hill, a Trojan all-American under Howard Jones in the '20's, and now head track coach at SC.

SCARS OF '76 STILL THERE

BOSTON (UP) — Daniel Malcolm's tombstone in Copps Hill burying ground still bears scars made by musketballs when British soldiers in 1776 used the stones during target practice.

COVERS LOT OF GROUND

MIAMI (UP) — Sand and sun hold no terrors for owners of a new piece of millinery here. Latest thing is a beach hat as wide as four feet which can "also" be used to bed down babies in the sand.



PINT-SIZED FIRE ENGINES—Midget fire engines have made their first appearance on the Japanese market. The fire-fighting equipment is mounted on a three-wheel motorcycle chassis. Salesman Muneshige is pictured with one of his firm's products, which sell for 460,000 yen, or about $1,277.

College Losing Vet Students

Veterans' enrollments in colleges and universities under the GI Bill and Public Law 16 on November 1, were about 17 percent below enrollments of a year ago.

On the other hand, enrollments in school below the college level —mainly trade and vocational schools—were at an all-time high aproximately 23 percent above the totals for Nvember 1, 1948.

Veterans Administration disclosed these proportions, and pointed out that while the November 1, 1949, statistics represent the bulk of fall enrollments of veterans, complete enrollment data for the current fall term probably will not be available for another month.

In numbers, veterans in colleges and universities under both laws on November 1, 1949, totaled 789,000, compared with 953,000 a year ago.

Below-college-level enrollments this year are 839,000. A year ago, the total was 676,000.

TEMPTING FATE

NO MORE HOT SEAT

PRICHARD, Ala. (UP)—Prichard firemen no longer get the hot seat. Fire Chief W. E. Dixon has invented a light asbestos screen which the fire fighters use to protect themselves when they have to turn their backs towards the fire.

VA Explains Change Of Course for Vets

Veterans Administration today explained what is meant by a "change of course," in the light of its recent regulations requiring veterans to obtain advisement and guidance if they plan to change their GI Bill courses to new general fields of study.

Under the regulations — Instruction 1-B to Public Law 266 — a veteran may make a change, without advisement and guidance, so long as his new course is in the same general field as his original objective or a normally related progressive objective.

If he wants to change to a different general field, however, the Instruction requires that he undergo advisement and guidance to determine his aptitude for and need of the course to complete his educational or job objective.

STATE GETS HISTORIC FORT

CASTINE, Me. (UP) — Fort George, a relic of the American Revolution, has been bequeathed to the state of Maine for use as a public park. Miss Amy Cate Witherle, last of an old Castine seafaring family, made the bequest in her will.
